1 in 2 women faculty in anesthesiology have experienced sexual harassment – the highest reported rate among academic medicine departments – according to the AAMC's first-of-its-kind report on the prevalence of sexual harassment among U.S. medical school faculty in the workplace.

Join lead author Diana Lautenberger, RADAR, and the Association of University Anesthesiologists for an important discussion on sexual harassment within the field and what practices we can put in place to prevent harassment.

RADAR is a partnership between the anesthesiology departments of the University of Michigan and Washington University St. Louis. For more information or to register for this event visit:
